Sanger Electric and CoServ announce fixed rates

City of Sanger and CoServ electric customers are fortunate after the arctic storm last week.

As Texas faced record-low temperatures snow and ice made roads impassable, the state's electric grid operator lost control of the power supply, leaving millions without access to electricity. As the blackouts extended from hours to days, top state lawmakers called for investigations into the Electric Reliability Council of Texas, and Texans demanded accountability for the disaster. We have compiled a list of resources for Texans who are seeking help, or places to get warm.

Gov. Greg Abbott and Texas lawmakers are promising relief for Texans hit with massive electric bills after a winter storm bludgeoned the state's power grid, leaving millions of residents freezing without electricity.

But how they'll accomplish that remains unclear. The state's deregulated electricity market not only allows for staggering price spikes, but effectively compels them for some customers.

While many Texans are on "fixed rate" electricity plans, including the City of Sanger and CoServ, that insulate them from market swings, others pay rates tied to the spot price of wholesale electricity, which skyrocketed during the storm.

As the bad weather bore down, it froze natural gas production and wind turbines, choking off the supply of electricity as demand skyrocketed. In response, the Public Utility Commission, appointed by Abbott, let the wholesale market price of electricity rise to $9 per kilowatt hour, a 7,400% increase over the average 12 cents per kilowatt hour.

The rate hike was supposed to entice power generators to get more juice into the grid, but the astounding costs were also passed directly on to some customers, who were suddenly being billed more for electricity each day than they normally pay in a month.

The City of Sanger released a statement to the public - "Sanger Electric Utilities is a municipal electric utility. News reports of massive electric bills for customers of retail electric companies on variable rate plans have left customers with questions regarding their bill.

SANGER CoServ

Sanger Electric rates are determined and set by the Sanger City Council. Sanger Electric customers are charged for the actual electricity consumed and charged at a fixed rate of .1175 per kWh.

If you have any questions about your account please call Customer Service at 940-458-7930."

CoServ released something similar for its customers, which provides a large part of the Sanger zip code area. "While CoServ Electric does not yet know all the costs associated with this extreme weather event, we recognize our Members are concerned about receiving an electric bill that is higher than usual.

We fully understand this concern and want to reiterate two things:

- 1) You will always only pay for the electricity you use.
- 2) You are never charged for usage during the time your electricity is off due to a rotating outage or when it is impacted by the weather.

The CoServ Electric Board of Directors has decided that the rate set on Feb. 1, 2021 which includes the Power Cost Recovery Factor (PCRF), will remain the same for February and March. Should the PCRF be adjusted following the month of March, we will work to minimize any impacts on you, our Members. This decision by our Board will ensure that you do not receive exorbitant bills as has been reported about other electric providers. With the extreme low temperatures sustained during the weather event, some Members will see an increase in their total bill - that increase only reflects the higher use of electricity, not a higher rate per kilowatt hour."

Here are answers to the most common questions CoServ has received to date:

Why did my home have so many rotating outages and someone else in my neighborhood did not?

MAKING SENSE OF INVESTING

Electric Rates

CoServ Electric, like every electric provider, receives mandates from ERCOT during an EEA 3 emergency on how much electricity we are required to take off the grid to keep it operational. Depending on how much electricity demand ERCOT requires us to shed, we must look at the number of circuits needed to turn off – and circuits with Members that address critical needs (hospitals, nursing homes, sewer systems, etc.) are prioritized to receive power – which is why some homes or neighborhoods on a circuit with Members that address critical needs aren't impacted by the rotating outages. These requirements are grouped by priority, based upon the size and number of critical loads on each feeder. For more information on critical needs accounts visit: <https://bit.ly/3smIXdb>

Why am I seeing all this usage on my SmartHub account when I wasn't receiving electricity during an outage?

SmartHub is designed to give each Member an estimated view of ongoing usage on their account. The "charges" some of our Members are seeing during an outage reflect estimated (not actual) usage from SmartHub to fill in the gaps and assist you in planning your usage for the rest of the month. To reduce confusion, we have taken this feature offline which will avoid a misrepresentation of the usage that occurred in your home/business during the extreme weather event last week.

Is the SmartHub issue the same as the one that has been in the news regarding smart meters and high bills?

No. SmartHub is a tool designed to fill in the gaps and assist you in planning your usage for the rest of the month. Smart meters send actual usage data to the electric provider. The media reports are referencing electric providers that send out monthly bills based on an estimated usage read from a smart meter. The chances of an estimated billing read being utilized on your CoServ electric bill are less than .04%. Should an estimated read be utilized for your bill, you will be contacted directly.

Am I going to get a higher than usual bill next month?

The CoServ Electric Board has decided that the rate set on February 1, 2021 which includes the Power Cost Recovery Factor (PCRF), will remain the same as it was before the extreme winter weather last week. The rate details, including the PCRF, can be found here: <https://bit.ly/3qK2zrj> This guarantees that our Members will not be severely impacted by the high wholesale prices that all electric providers faced during this time. The PCRF has been in place to consistently help spread anticipated higher costs over a longer period of time to benefit our Members. We will not be charging late fees and will suspend disconnections for nonpayment for the next 30 days. Impacts to your bill related to usage may change the amount you pay, particularly if you have electric heat, heat pumps, pool equipment or utilized space heaters during the extreme weather.

A special thank you to Mrs. Kiley Clements, her crew and EFI for many hours of unselfish work getting our buildings ready for Monday. We have had multiple campuses with burst pipes as we started the thawing out process. We will have some areas on campuses we will need to avoid until restoration is complete, but none that make for an unsafe educational setting. We are looking forward to getting back to school.

As stated in last week's communication, the district will be applying to Texas Education Agency for missed school day waivers due to the electrical outages and the rolling blackouts. These waivers should be a formality. With these waivers, Sanger ISD will NOT have to make up any of the missed instructional minutes from last week's closure. This year has been challenging enough without having to add more time to our students and / or staff's calendar.

Thank you for your understanding and support you have shown the district during this past week. I hope you and your families avoided any costly repairs to your homes or properties.

Respectfully,

Dr. Tommy Hunter

Dallas Pinkston knocks Sanger out of the playoffs

After losses to Dallas Pinkston in 2019 and 2020 ended Sanger's playoff runs early, the Lady Indians basketball team believed this year would be different on Saturday afternoon at Coppell High School, in an area contest (second-round).

Circumstances were stacked against them, though, with Sanger facing the Lady Vikings' (23-5) fierce pressure defense with only one practice due to the inclement weather and before that their first-round bi-district playoff game won by forfeit.

The Lady Indians (20-6) bolted out to a 6-0 lead and led at halftime 25-22, but eventually Pinkston found its footing and stormed back to defeat Sanger 57-46 in the Class 4A Region II area playoff round.

"This is the third year in a row we've played [Pinkston] and we just continue to get better and we did all we could do," Sanger coach Derek Hilliard said. "This year we believed. Last year we were scared to death, but this year we were ready and knew we could do it. They fought till the end, it just doesn't always work out."

As if it wasn't hard enough to play the frenetic and explosive Lady Vikings, senior Chloe Malone got into foul trouble. Three fouls in the first quarter and another in the second sent the Lady Indians' star wing to the bench, forcing Hilliard to drop into a zone.

That's when Pinkston started burying 3-pointers. By the end, the Lady Vikings had hit six 3-pointers, each time allowing them to set up their vaunted press.

"We had Chloe on their leading scorer, but then we had to go to the zone, which worked for a while, but then they started hitting [3-pointers]," Hilliard said. "They had a little bit more than we could handle today and when [two key players] get in foul trouble, it's tough."

Still, Sanger continued scrapping, staying within reach until late in the fourth quarter. Malone eventually fouled out in the final frame with nine points. Sophomore Lexi Martin led the Lady Indians with 16 points while fellow sophomore Carly Shumaker pitched in 11 of her own.

Sanger loses two seniors Malone and Phoenix Dillon. They both helped the Lady Indians to the first District Championship since 2011.

District runner-up Melissa beat Dallas Lincoln 67-47 to advance to the regional-quarterfinals. They played Midlothian Heritage this week. Pinkston played Kennedale on Wednesday.

SHS senior Chloe Malone is about to score in the Area playoff game.

Lexi Martin drives past a Pinkston player. She led Sanger with 16 points.

Bella Ringenberg gets blocked out.

Phoenix Dillon dribbles to the top of the key.

The Lady Indians had plenty of support from their fans against Pinkston.
